FAQ's P.4

Welcome Back!

Welcome back to a new school year! I hope everyone had a relaxing summer. To our new faculty, we are happy to have you join the Lancer family. If there is anything the library can do to help ease your transition, just let us know. We'd be happy to help you plan a lesson, select library resources to support a lesson, or find ways to infuse technology into your existing lessons.

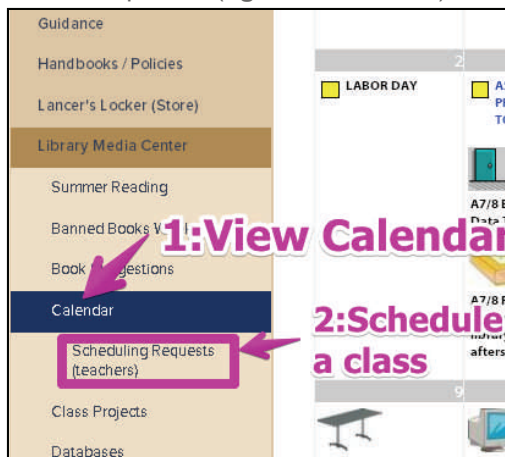

I've got a few shenanigans already in mind for this year to help keep things interesting, so stay tuned!

Thanks, -Janet Kenney

Scheduling Classes for the LMC (Library Media Center)

Teachers are encouraged to visit the LMC as you plan your lessons. I'd love to help you plan your assignments from the ground up or help you tweak an existing one. The calendar is very busy, so please schedule your LMC visits at least two days in advance.

1. Check the LMC's calendar and schedule classes on our website (bit.ly/behslib). A link to the calendar is in the menu on the left.
2. Our calendar can look a bit overwhelming, but there is a key to the symbols at the bottom. A typical calendar entry includes the period(s), teacher's Name, and the # of students in that period. (eg A1/2 Smith 20).

3. Once you are ready to schedule, click the Schedule a Class button at the left of the page, enter the password key [redacted] and fill out the form on the following screen.

4. Of course, call or e-mail me for any help.

Banned Books Week (BBW) is an annual event celebrating the freedom to read and the importance of the First Amendment. Held during the last week of September, Banned Books Week highlights the benefits of free and open access to information while drawing attention to the harms of censorship by spotlighting actual or attempted bannings of books across the United States.

Intellectual freedom—the freedom to access information and express ideas, even if the information and ideas might be considered unorthodox or unpopular—provides the foundation for Banned Books Week. BBW stresses the importance of ensuring the availability of unorthodox or unpopular viewpoints for all who wish to read and access them.

The books featured during Banned Books Week have been targets of attempted bannings. Fortunately, even though some books were banned or restricted, in most of the cases books were not banned, all thanks to the efforts of librarians, teachers, booksellers, and members of the community to retain the books in the library collections. Imagine how many more books might be challenged—and possibly banned or restricted—if librarians, teachers, and booksellers across the country did not use Banned Books Week each year to teach the importance of our First Amendment rights and the power of literature, and to draw attention to the danger that exists when restraints are imposed on the availability of information in a free society.

Visit the library and peruse our collection of frequently challenged books on display.

Enclosed is a banned book week poster to hang in your classroom.

KEY TO REASONS BOOKS WERE CHALLENGED IN 2012

1: religious viewpoint 2: unsuited for age group 3: offensive language 4: racism 5: sexually explicit 6: violence 7: Drugs/alcohol/smoking 8: suicide 9: homosexuality

NBC Learn <https://archives.nbclearn.com>

Have you noticed the NBC Learn video player on the start page of Destiny? Wondered what it is and how to use it? Well, here is some information from its website—with a direct link above.

NBC Learn is an online video collection of more than 12,000 stories from the NBC News archives — one of the largest news archives in the world, dating back to the 1920s. Collections are updated with current events every day, Monday through Friday, with stories from such celebrated programs as NBC Nightly News, the TODAY show, Meet the Press, Dateline NBC, etc.

The original videos and archival news stories are correlated to state standards and the Common Core, and aligned to more than 25 K-12 collections. Videos are generally short — less than six minutes in length. Yet these brief videos are full stories, with a beginning, middle and end, reported by some of the most famous journalists in broadcast history.

This Month's Q&A Technology Tips

How do I upload my existing documents into Google so I can edit them?

You should set up your Google Drive so that with each upload, you get a choice of how to upload it. If you want to edit a document you should select "Convert documents... to the corresponding Google Docs format."

To fix it so that you are asked about each upload, do the following

HUNGER GAMES Competition

The library is gearing up to host another Hunger Games just in time for the release of the second movie, Catching Fire, on November 22.

Two students from each grade will be competing in a series of challenges from the end of September until the week of November 18. Like last time, the winning student will get passes to see the movie on opening night.

To get the rest of the student body involved, each class will be able to support its tributes and keep him/her from being eliminated. All students will have an incentive to support the competitors because the winning student's entire class will get to watch the first Hunger Games movie in the auditorium on Friday, November 22.
